KeyCite® on WestlawNext® may be used to check a case's history for precedential changes or look for citing references to a case.

To find KeyCite® information for a case, search for the case or type the case or item number in the search bar at the top of the WestlawNext® homepage.

Open the document you would like to view.

KeyCite® symbols will appear above the document with a brief explanation of the most negative treatment indicated by the symbol and a link to the related document.

A yellow flag indicates a document has some negative treatment.

A red flag indicates a document is no longer good law for at least one point of law.

A blue-striped flag indicates a document has been appealed to the U.S. Courts of Appeals or the U.S. Supreme Court (excluding appeals originating from agencies).

A series of tabs appear below the KeyCite® status line to provide the following information:

The Filing Tab contains a list of documents filed in connection to your case. These items will be marked Out of Plan to indicate they are not offered as part of the Law Library's Patron Access subscription, but copies may be requested directly from the Court Clerk where the case was filed.

The Negative Treatment tab includes Negative Citing References with Depth-of-Treatment-Bars and Headnotes, described in the next column.

The History tab opens a graphical chart of the case, with Direct History items listed in the left panel.

The Citing References tab includes cases, documents, and other sources of law that have referred to the cited document. Depth-of-Treatment-Bars and Headnotes at the right of each item provide information about how much and how it refers to the document you are researching.

EXAMINED – extensive discussion of the cited case.

DISCUSSED – substantial discussion of the cited case.

CITED – some discussion of the cited case.

MENTIONED – brief reference to the cited case.

” Quotation Marks indicate that the citing document directly quotes the cited case.

Headnotes indicate which point of law a citing document discusses.

The Table of Authorities tab lists cases that have been relied upon as authority in the document viewed.
